The New England Jewish Labor Committee joins UNITE HERE Local 26 in supporting Boston Marriott Hotel Workers!

Come to the Sheraton Hotel (a Marriott brand) today, Wednesday, June 27, 4:00-6:30 p.m. for a rally and demonstration 39 Dalton Street, Boston 02199

Boston Marriott hotel workers will hold a demonstration and join an international campaign to call on Marriott, on of the world's biggest and richest hotel company, to provide one job that is enough for hotel workers.

CLICK HERE to Tweet @Marriott and let them know that one job should be enough to pay the bills, raise a family, and retire with dignity.

Marriott is one of the largest and richest hotel company in the world and the largest operator of major downtown Boston hotels. This fight will ultimately impact over 4,000 hotel workers in the city of Boston.

Check out this website calling on Marriott to lead in setting a new standard for hotel workers across North America.

In addition to demanding Marriott provide jobs that are enough for workers to live on in Boston and other high-cost cities, workers will call on Marriott to protect their ability to serve guests, use technology to innovate, not cut human service, and offer stronger protections for safety at work, including from sexual harassment.
